During the bombing and sinking of the ship, Captain Roberts, assistant Military Attaché, disregarding his own safety, assisted in the care of the wounded in executing the abandonment of the ship. The ship's officers having been incapacitated by wounds, Captain Roberts was placed in charge when the survivors reached shore. Displaying excellent leadership, courage and tact, he initiated immediate measures for security and the alleviation of the suffering of the wounded. He then conducted the party to safety through an unknown country occupied by troops engaged in hostilities, thereby preserving the lives of the survivors. The grave responsibilities which devolved upon Captain Roberts were met in a prompt and efficient manner, thereby reflecting great credit upon himself and the military service."
